

I am delighted to support the IMPACT project, launched by IDF.

I am completely aware of the need to educate people about diabetes' diseases. Actions must be taken to move forward on tackling diabetes at both national and European levels. In Europe, children are the first to be concerned by diabetes' diseases. Europe must drive effective policies to address diabetes' deficiencies and to improve the health status of diabetes' patients.

I will bring IDF all my energy and support in its fight against diabetes.
